IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

Miss Langhorne Becomes the Bride of Mr. S. Washburn.

WEDDING A SOCIETY EVENT

Bishop Satterlee officiated at Ceremony, Which Took Place in St. John's Church—Decorations Were Elaborate, and Guests Included a Number of Prominent People.

St. John's Church was the scene of one of the most beautiful weddings in all its history yesterday afternoon, when Miss Alice Langhorne, of this city, and Stanley Washburn, of Minneapolis, Minn., were married in the presence of a fashionable company, Right Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, Bishop of Washington, officiating, assisted by the rector of the church, Rev. Roland Cotton Smith.

As the invitations were limited strictly to relatives and close personal friends, the side chapel was screened from the body of the church by a wall of pine and southern smilax extending from the top of the pews to the gallery. The gallery front was covered with smilax, so as to make a solid wall of rich green, from which rose a growing wall of palms, dwarf fir, and other decorative greens. The galleries were further ornamented by clusters of white chrysanthemums, going completely around the church. The wall back of the altar was treated to a veiling of green from altar to roof, while at either side of the altar rose a small forest of palms and chrysanthemums and a graduated line of lighted tapers in gilt candelabra.

During the seating of the guests Andrew Wheeler, of Philadelphia, gave a beautiful recital, which ended in the bridal music of Lohengrin as the bride entered the church. The ushers, who led the procession, were Mr. D. Washburn, Jr., of Minneapolis; Cadwallader Washburn, of New York, both brothers of the bridegroom; Richard Barry, also of New York; John Bass, of Chicago, and Messrs. Marshall and Cary Langhorne, brothers of the bride. The latter was attended only by her sister, Mrs. Powell Clayton, Jr.

The bride's gown was a princess robe of real lace, built on a foundation of white silk, with an accordion pleating of white chiffon. She wore a tulle veil, with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor wore a gown of pink chiffon, made with full skirt and round waist. The former, which had only a slight train, was trimmed in deep tucks and narrow ruffles in alternate rows from the hem half way up the skirt to the belt. A picture hat in pink, with bouquet of bridesmaid roses, completed the costume.

Witnessing the ceremony were, in addition to the bride's immediate family, the parents of the bridegroom, ex-Senator and Mrs. W. D. Washburn; his brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton Wright; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yarnall; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Norris, of Philadelphia; the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Mr. Fuller, and his daughter, Mrs. Mason; Rear Admiral and Mrs. Robley D. Evans; Mr. and Mrs. Ord Parsons; Mrs. Foraker and Miss Foraker; Miss Satterlee, Miss Paulding, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Barbour, Mrs. M. K. Brown, Miss Sheridan, Miss Cole, Miss Gay, Mrs. Gaillard Hunt, the Misses McCammon, Mr. and Mrs. Ormsby-McCammon, Dr. and Mrs. Chatham, Mrs. Peyton Russell, Miss Sheridan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Poor, Mrs. Joseph H. Kuhn, Miss Foule, Mrs. Cassels and Miss Cassels.

A small reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Langhorne, followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Washburn left for an extensive honeymoon trip, to end at their future home in Minneapolis.

The marriage of Miss Mary Digges Lee, daughter of Mrs. Charles Carroll Lee, formerly of New York but now residing in Washington, to Mr. Oakbridge, of Frederick County, Md., took place yesterday at noon at St. Matthew's Church. The ceremony, at which the bride's uncle, Rev. Thomas S. Lee, rector of St. Matthew's, officiated, took place in the chapel of St. Anthony, adjoining the main edifice, and was witnessed only by a small company of relatives and friends. A nuptial mass followed the ceremony, Rev. Edward L. Buckley, the assistant rector, being the celebrant.

The marble-lined walls of the chapel made a beautiful background for the tropical ornamentation of palms, foliage plants, chrysanthemums, and roses which were placed about the altar, on which gleamed many tapers set amidst the vases of roses. The floor was covered with handsome rugs, and during the mass which followed the ceremony the couple knelt at white-covered prie-dieux at the foot of the altar steps.

The music at the mass, which was rendered by eight male voices, was purely Gregorian, and was most impressive.

The ushers, who seated the guests some minutes before 12, were Robert J. Collier, of New York; James P. Lee, Lee Horsey, and Charles C. L. Horsey. When the bride arrived she was escorted by her brother, Dr. Thomas S. Lee, of this city, and attended by her sister, Miss Helen Lee, as maid of honor. Mr. Philip A. Carroll was best man.

The bridal toilet of embroidered white satin was enriched by quantities of old point lace, modestly arranged. Her tulle veil was held by a half circle of orange blossoms, and a diamond crescent brooch was her only ornament. Her bouquet was a shower of orchids and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore an equally effective costume of white lace with a girdle in pompadour effects. Her

Governor and Wife Receive in Honor of Daughter.

INFORMAL DANCING FOLLOWS

Two Trainloads of Guests from Baltimore Attend Ball at the Executive Mansion—Debutantes of the Season at the Maryland Capital Participate in the Festivities.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 27.—Two special trainloads of guests came from Baltimore to-night to attend the ball at the Executive Mansion, given by Gov. and Mrs. Edwin Warfield, in honor of the debut of their eldest daughter, Miss Carrie Warfield. All of old colonial Annapolis and the navy set were present, as there has not been a dance at the executive house for years, and Miss Warfield is the first daughter of a governor to make her debut in its stately halls.

Miss Warfield will not be formally introduced to society prior to her appearance at the first Monday dinner, with the other debutantes of the season, on December 3.

The affair this evening was in the nature of an old-fashioned "party," and was thoroughly informal and jolly, with a lack of stiffness. Invitations to it were confined to the "dancing set" in Baltimore, and a number of young girls and men in Annapolis. The debutantes of the season, however, who will be Miss Warfield's companions at other entertainments, had the right of way.

Guests were received in the red drawing-room, on the second floor, which was decorated with American Beauty roses.

Governor Takes Part.

Dancing took place in the spacious hall and the yellow-room, which were profuse with greens and palms. A number of old-fashioned dances were given, including the Valse-Vienne, in which the governor and his wife took part. All present joined in a rollicking Virginia reel.

The Naval Academy Band rendered the music. A real old-fashioned Maryland supper, of the famous Maryland dishes, was served from 11:30 p. m. to 1:30 a. m.

Miss Warfield wore a gown of opalescent chiffon over white chrysanthemum, bordered with opals and trimmed with point and duchess lace, and her jewels were diamonds.

Miss Warfield's gown was of white point d'esprit, over white silk, trimmed with lace and pink rosebuds, and she held a bouquet of pink roses.

HARVARD MEN REMEMBER DAY

Thanksgiving Is Birthday of Founder of University.

Washington Members of Alumni Will Hold Special Services at Which President May Be Present.

Thanksgiving Day this year has a double significance for Harvard men. In the first place, it is a son of old Harvard who signed the national Thanksgiving Day proclamation, and in the second place, Thanksgiving this year falls on the birthday of the founder of Harvard University, for it was on November 23, 1637, that "John Harvard, son of Robert, a butcher," was born.

Many Harvardians in mundo toto are prepared to celebrate to-morrow the 29th birthday of the founder of the alma mater. Harvard men in this city and members of the University Club will observe the event in a fitting manner, and it may be taken as a certainty that President Roosevelt, the foremost Harvard man in the world, will devote a few moments of his valuable time to thoughts of that worthy pioneer of higher education in this country.

A former ambassador from the United States to England once publicly declared that if he were conducting a party of American tourists through England he would, immediately upon his arrival in London, take them to the old church at Baskin, now known as Southwark Cathedral; not so much because of the many objects of historic and literary interest to be seen there as for the sake of the entry in the baptismal register under date November 23, 1637, "John Harvard, son of Robert, a butcher." For that is the story.

By his mother's will, Harvard inherited considerable wealth in 1633. Two years later he married Miss Ann Sadler, the daughter of a Sussex clergyman, and with her left Southwark for New England. They made their home at Charlestown, where, soon after their arrival, Harvard was admitted as a townsman, and a month or two later a "freeman." He and his wife became members of the First Church of Charlestown, and he often occupied the pulpit and acted as assistant to the pastor.

Impressed by the desirability of educating the children of the colonists, as well as the native youth, in "knowledge and godliness," Harvard cordially encouraged a project of the settlers to found a school, for which Newbury had been chosen as the site, and his practical interest in the scheme manifested itself in the form of a bequest of half of this estate, amounting to some $4,000, and his library of 320 volumes. The humble seminary in the wilderness, constructed of wood, thus endowed, was the beginning of the great university.

Mission Inmates to Get Dinner.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be given to the inmates of the Florence Crittenton Mission. At a meeting of the auxiliary to the board of management, held last week, the plans for the feast were perfected. Many articles have been pledged as presents by people interested in the work of the mission. A Christmas sale for the benefit of the home will be held at the training school, 218 Third street, on December 4 and 5.

Memorial for Samuel Langley.

The life and services of Samuel Pierpont Langley are to be commemorated in a memorial meeting of the board of regents of the Smithsonian Institution, of which Prof. Langley was secretary from 1887 to 1906. The meeting will be held in the lecture room of the United States National Museum, Monday evening, December 3, at 8:45 o'clock.

Addresses are to be delivered by Chancellor of the Smithsonian Institution, Melville W. Fuller, Chief Justice of the United States; Mr. Andrew D. White, LL. D., and Prof. E. C. Pickering, director of Harvard Observatory, who will speak on Mr. Langley's contribution to astronomy.

ATTEND HARBOR CONVENTION.

Produce Exchange to Work for Deep Water Improvements.

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, Nov. 27.—William H. Douglas, president of the New York Produce Exchange, announced this afternoon that the organization of which he is the head has decided to send delegates to the third annual convention of the National River and Harbors Congress, to be held in Washington, December 6 and 7, for the purpose of achieving united action in the campaign being carried on for increased appropriations for the improvement of the rivers and harbors of the country.

The fact that water transportation, such as would be possible with sufficient appropriations, would cost only one-sixth of the present rail rates, is being pointed out by members of the congress as one of the strongest arguments in favor of the needed appropriations.

350 GUESTS AT GARY HOME

Reception Held in Honor of Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Seven Married Daughters and One Daughter-in-law Assist Wife of Former Postmaster General.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 27.—The seven married daughters and the daughter-in-law of former Postmaster General and Mrs. James A. Gary helped receive at the reception given by Gen. and Mrs. Gary at their home to-night in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

The house was even more gorgeously decorated with palms and golden chrysanthemums to-night than last night, when there was a family dinner. Three hundred and fifty guests were present.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Gary were their daughters and sons-in-law: Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Taylor, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. James, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Levering, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Graham, Mr. Van Lear Black, Dr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Whitridge, their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. Stanley Gary and their granddaughters: Misses Lurline James, Louisa MacGill Gary, Mary Regan Gary, Messrs. Henry James, Francis E. P. Graham, Jr., Van Lear Black, Jr., E. Stanley Gary, Jr., Mrs. Gary's sister, Mrs. Theresa Wilson; Gen. Gary's sister, Mrs. H. B. Holton, Baltimore County, and Mrs. Theresa Wilson, who was maid of honor and only survivor of the wedding attendants.

Van Lear Black is ill with typhoid fever, and James A. Gary, Jr., is at Harvard, a butcher.

Gen. Gary was married at the age of twenty-three, and his wife, who was Miss Lavinia W. Corrie, was a few years younger. Mrs. Wilson, the maid of honor, is now eighty-four.

Gen. and Mrs. Gary received a number of beautiful presents and many letters of congratulation from Baltimore and out-of-town friends.

MRS. YERKES SEEKS FREEDOM.

Widow of Millionaire Car Magnate Prepares for Divorce.

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 27.—William H. Johnson, a Chicago lawyer, who was associated with Charles T. Yerkes, to-day secured from an actor, playing here, a deposition that he was one of the party that witnessed the wedding of Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes to Wilson Mizner. According to Johnson, Mrs. Yerkes is anxious for a divorce from Mizner, and is gaining a residence in Chicago to secure it.

Mr. Johnson said he has always believed a wedding took place, but the matter had to be established legally. He said the information served to establish marriage, and also established basis for a divorce. Mr. Johnson said:

"Mrs. Yerkes has been told by friends present that there really was a wedding, but declares that she remembers nothing about it, and thinks she must have been doped. The ill-fated divorce against her young husband will be started as soon as Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner is well enough to give testimony. She has submitted to several severe operations, and is not strong. Under the divorce act will procure Mizner will not be entitled to any of her property."

TABLET UNVEILED AT YORK.

Marks Spot Where Continental Congress Once Held Sessions.

York, Pa., Nov. 27.—The unveiling of a bronze tablet in Centre Square, marking the spot where once stood the Continental Courthouse in which the Continental Congress met during the darkest period of the American Revolution, took place here to-day. Several thousand school children, a band of music, and a choir took part in the exercises. The tablet was erected and unveiled by the Continental Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Open Winter, Early Spring.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 27.—A number of blackbirds and robins were seen at Berwick, near here, this morning, and old settlers declare that this is the best possible indication of an open winter and an early spring. The birds usually disappear from this district several weeks earlier each fall.

Mrs. James Howard III with Fever.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 27.—Mrs. James Howard, whose husband is serving a life sentence for the Goebel murder, is ill with typhoid fever at the Deaconess Hospital. Her children are separated, it having been found necessary to place them in different homes.

Senator Cullom's Nephew Dead.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 27.—Shelby M. Cullom, clerk of the Arizona Supreme Court and a nephew of Senator Cullom, of Illinois, died here yesterday of consumption. He was thirty-eight years old.
